

One of the many prominent, though youthful, seagoers on the Olympic: Miss Eileen Burden, daughter of Mrs. Arthur Scott Burden. Photo, Paul Thompson.

Above—Bride of Haddon Chambers, novelist and playwright, who was Mlle. Papita Bobadillo. The announcement of their marriage surprised their friends. Copyright, E. O. Hoppe.

E. O. Hoppe's portrait study of the Princess Anastasia of Greece, formerly Mrs. William B. Leeds of Montclair and New York. Her present husband is a brother of King Constantine. It is reported her son may marry the Princess Olga. Copyright, E. O. Hoppe.

Dr. Norah E. Dowell, formerly instructor in geology at Smith College, recently appointed assistant geologist in the United States Geological Survey. Copyright, Harris & Ewing.

Above—Miss Millicent Rogers photographed with her fiancé, James B. Thompson, just before she sailed on the Olympic recently. Mr. Thompson stayed in America. Photo, Paul Thompson.

New photograph of the executive committee of the Woman's Roosevelt Memorial Association, engaged in restoring the birthplace of Theodore Roosevelt in East Twentieth street. Left to right: Mrs. A. Barton Hephurn (leaning on chair); Mrs. John Henry Hammond (at table); Mrs. James Russell Parsons (seated at right). Others, left to right, are: Mrs. William Curtis Demorest, Mrs. Charles A. Bryan, Mrs. Vladimir Simkhovitch, Mrs. Henry A. Alexander and Mrs. Henry A. Wise Wood. Copyright, Underwood & Underwood.

At right—Miss Margaret Kahn, daughter of Otto H. Kahn, one of the Olympic's passengers, photographed just before sailing. Photo, International.